DETAILED ACTION

This Office Action represents a non-final first Office Action for the application titled "SINGLE-HANDED CORD/CABHLE MANAGEMENT DEVICE," filed March 30, 2004.

Priority

Acknowledgment is made of applicant's claim for priority under 35 U.S.C. 120.

Information Disclosure Statement

The information disclosure statement filed March 30, 2004 has been considered.

Specification

1. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: On page 6, line 6 states "according present invention." Line 6 should be changed to –according to the present invention–. On page 7, line 17 states "in perspective qa joiner." Line 17 should be changed to –in perspective a joiner–. Appropriate correction is required.

Double Patenting

2. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

3. Claims 1, 2, 3, and 20 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1 of U.S. Patent No. 6,712,320 in view of U.S. Patent No. 6,481,673 to Roe et al. Claim 1 of U.S. Patent No. 6,712,320 discloses a cable bundling device comprising: a flexible arcuate strap portion, said strap portion having a first end and a second end, and an inner surface and an outer surface, said outer surface forming a perimeter of said flexible arcuate strap portion, wherein said first and second ends form a discontinuity in said perimeter of said arcuate strap portion, and wherein said inner surface forms a cavity; and first and second finger grips, said first finger grip being located adjacent to said first end, and said second finger grip being located adjacent to said second end; wherein said first and second finger grips allow interposition of a finger between said flexible arcuate strap portion and said finger grip, wherein said first and second ends substantially abut each other when said flexible arcuate strap portion is in a relaxed state, but does not disclose a retainer that is joined to said arcuate strap portion. Roe et al. discloses a retainer (16) that is mechanically joined and removeably connected to a flexible arcuate strap portion (columns 1 and 2, lines 66-67 and 1, respectively. In view of Roe et al. it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have provided U.S. Patent No. 6,712,320 with a retainer wherein doing so would allow the strap to be secured to a support (column 1, lines 37-40).

4. Claims 1 and 4 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1 of U.S. Patent No. 6,712,320 in view of U.S. Patent No. 5,678,609 to Washburn. Claim 1 of U.S. Patent No. 6,712,320 discloses the cable bundling device as applied above, but does not disclose a retainer that is bonded to said arcuate strap portion. Washburn discloses a cable bundling device comprising a retainer (25) that is bonded (column 5, lines 57-62) to a cable bundling duct (26) by way of a web (34). The retainer (25) of Washburn provides a means to support and/or retain the cable bundling duct (26). See abstract, lines 1-4, and column 5, lines 9-12. In view of Washburn it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have provided U.S. Patent No. 6,712,320 with a retainer wherein doing so would allow the cable bundling device to be support and/or retained (abstract, lines 1-4, and column 5, lines 9-12).

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 5-10 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Claims 11-19 are allowed.

The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter:

Regarding claim 5, the prior art failed to disclose a retainer that is removable connected to an arcuate strap portion by a connector portion, said connector portion comprising a channel and a tongue, said tongue being retained in said channel when said tongue is inserted into said channel.

Regarding claim 10, the prior art failed to disclose a cable bundling device having finger grips that are removable connected to an arcuate strap portion.

Regarding claim 11, the prior art failed to disclose a joiner, said joiner being engageable to said arcuate strap portions to join said plurality of flexible arcuate strap portions to each other.

Conclusion

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
